Update from CUI Inc regarding Covid-19 (Coronavirus)

As the global community is aware, the Covid-19 containment action directed by the World Health Organization (WHO) is ongoing. As information develops and additional measures are taken to reduce the spread of the virus, CUI has been in constant communication with our factories in the communities most affected by the virus.

We take disruption to the supply chain very seriously and can confirm all of our factories have now reopened for work. Even though the factories are open, many are still working under-capacity due to effect of the shutdowns throughout the supply chain.

Our sales team will remain vigilant in providing updates to impacted orders/deliveries. Many orders will deliver on time. However, we anticipate some orders will be delivered later than originally committed.

We appreciate your understanding during this global event. If you have questions about existing or future orders please contact your CUI sales representative directly or you can reach us at sales@cui.com.

Best Regards,

Ruth Miller, CPIM
Senior Director of Operations
